ABOUT stackconf

stackconf is about open source infrastructure in the spectrum of CI/CD, container, hybrid and cloud solutions. Today businesses have to meet the challenging requirements of an accelerated digital age, with virtual infrastructures and multi-channel platforms as the new normal.

The two-day conference covers cutting-edge topics around the whole lifecycle of modern IT infrastructures. From building, CI/CD to running and monitoring such infrastructures – there's something for everyone:

Trendsetting concepts, state-of-the-art technical expertise, innovative developments, top level discussions, and new perspectives in dealing with complex IT infrastructures have distinguished the event since 2009.

IT infrastructure is the technology foundation that supports a company's business strategy, its ability to innovate with technology, and its digital capabilities. stackconf offers solutions and orientation in a rapidly changing IT world.

Renowned international professionals present their ideas for pioneering IT infrastructures that make companies sustainably successful and enable further opportunities for the future.

The international stackconf audience includes well-known infrastructure specialists, industry leaders, experienced administrators, and architects as well as a wide variety of open source community enthusiasts.

Expect exciting discussions, an intensive exchange of experiences, inspiring encounters, and great networking opportunities with the multi-faceted field of participants!
